VICTORIOUS REBELS BEGIN ADVANCE ON MEXICAN CAPITAL

Villa Expects to Have 30,000 Men to Attack Mexico City.

LEAVE 300 TROOPS AT OJINAGA

Rebel Leader Intimates Capital Will Be Evacuated Before He Reaches It; American Soldier Shoots Federal Officer Fleeing Across the Border.

By United Press.

PRESIDIO, Tex., January 13.—General Villa, whose troops captured Ojinaga on Saturday, has already begun his advance in Mexico City. It was announced today that 1,500 Constitutionalists had started on a march to Falmer, there to board four special trains for Chihuahua.

"We have about 7,000 men," said General Villa, "and it will take at least a week to get them all out. At Torreon we will be joined by from 5,000 to 7,000 more and the entire army will proceed to San Louis Potosi and Monterey with Mexico City as the ultimate object. We will have about 30,000 men with which to begin the attack if the city has not been evacuated by the time we arrive there."

Villa denied that there had been any execution of Federal prisoners of war. A greater part of the Ojinaga garrison escaped to the American side, where they will be kept until the war is over.

Flaviana Pollse, a commissioned paymaster with the rank of major, was shot by an American soldier at Marsa. He is believed to be a regular officer of Mercado's army fleeing from detention. The soldier fired when an automobile containing Polise and several officers refused to halt. Polise's wound is not serious.

COMMISSIONERS AUTHORIZE NEW WALK ON YOUGH BRIDGE

County Engineer Directed to Draw Up Plans for Much Needed Improvements.

The county commissioners on Saturday directed the county engineer to draw up plans for a new walk on the south side of the Yough bridge with the ultimate object of erecting this much needed improvement. When the plans are drawn up the commissioners will go over them and then award the contract.

After the new walk is constructed the old one will be sloped for repairs and the bridge given a general overhauling in order to make it better able to withstand the strain it is put to each day.

The commissioners' action was taken as the result of agitation begun by The Courier which resulted in the circulation of a big petition praying that the bridge be repaired and a new walk erected. Senator William E. Crow then interested himself in the matter and it was largely due to his influence that such prompt action was taken.

Care will be taken that the new walk does not include the objectionable features of the present one. The county engineer will decide the best material and style of construction.

ASKS MORE MONEY

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 12.—A hearing in the case of Mrs. Kathryn Kerr against her husband, Albert Kerr, was held Saturday afternoon before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen. Mrs. Kerr seeks to have her allowance of $20 a month increased to $75. The pair have been separated for some time and the wife, who was given custody of the child by the court last May, claims her husband has been squandering an estate which he inherited.

A number of witnesses testified they had seen Kerr intoxicated, and that they had seen him at dances with married women. Mrs. Kerr told of her husband signing the pledge for five years about two weeks before they were married. He kept the pledge until February, 1913, she said.

It was brought out in the testimony that Kerr received $75 a month as bookkeeper and that when he was off duty his sister worked for him. It was also admitted that Kerr has other profitable investments.

SOME TAXES IN VIEW

License Ordinance is Said to Cover Everything in Sight.

According to reports that simmer out from the ordinance laboratory—Solicitor Higbee's office—provision is made in the revenue ordinance to license any and everybody for something or other. A systematic system of taxation for revenue will be outlined in the measure, which is the result of long conferences by the committee appointed to draft it.

Nothing has been overlooked, members of the committee say, but they assured the anxious public that walking and talking will be as free as ever—within certain limits.

The ordinance may be presented at tonight's meeting of council, providing Clerk Bixler completes the reading of his voluminous minutes in time for the body to transact some business.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS INTO REGION WITH A FIERCE WIND STORM

Mountain Gale Accompanies Sudden Drop in Temperature

WORSE WEATHER IS COMING

Weather Bureau Predicts Lower Mercury and a Rough Week is Promised for This Section; Some Snow Falls During Night; Wind to Continue.

A cold wave descended upon the coke region during the night, swept in by a mountain gale which raged for hours. Although 22 degrees was the minimum temperature reported here, prediction is made by the weather forecaster in Pittsburg that the mercury will drop many degrees lower during the next 24 hours. The only real cold spell of the winter, is what Forecaster Henry Pennywitt dubs the present atmospheric disturbance, and the signs indicated that he will make good.

That the entire week will be rough and stormy is indicated in the weekly forecast issued by the Weather Bureau in Washington. There will be freezing weather in all sections, particularly during the first few days of the week. Both rain and snow are promised.

There was less variation in temperature for the 24 hours ending at noon today than in many months. A maximum of 30 degrees, two degrees below the freezing mark, was recorded, while the minimum was 22 degrees, a range of only eight degrees during the 24 hours.

Although there was a brisk breeze blowing all day yesterday, which accentuated the cold, it was not until late at night that the gale began to rage. Once started, it kept blowing at high velocity until morning. There was somewhat of a lull after daylight, but still enough wind to make things disagreeable out of doors.

BAD SCOTTDALE FIRE

Weaver's Picture Store a Total Loss; Fruit Stand Damaged.

SCOTTDALE, Jan. 12.—Fanned by the high wind, flames this morning destroyed the picture store of O. S. Weaver on Pittsburg street and damaged the fruit store of Joseph Smith. Prompt work by the fire department prevented the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. The building occupied by Weaver was totally destroyed. The roof of Z. T. McKee's meat market was damaged and there was some loss from smoke in John Hawk's plumbing shop, which adjoined the burned buildings.

Weaver's loss is $2,400, covered by $700 insurance. The loss on the building, which was owned by the Loucks estate, will be considerable. Smith lost $150, and carried no insurance.

Fortunately for the firemen, the wind subsided to some extent while the fire was raging, but there was still enough blowing to make their task difficult.

The calendars of both houses are crammed with bills. One of the first to come up in the Senate will be the Alaskan railroad bill and it is probable that before it passes the establishment of a government steamship line as well as a railroad may be authorized.

The Senate committee on elections will have contests over the seats of Blair Lee of Maryland and Frank P. Glass of Alabama to decide.

According to Pittsburg dispatches, P. B. Wreath has secured a franchise for Connellsville in a new baseball league to be composed of six or eight clubs under the name of the Ohio & Pennsylvania League. Others whose cured franchises were: Altoona, Robert Schwartz; Johnstown, F. G. Paige; McKeesport, H. A. McKinnon; Clinton, Hugh Shannon; East Liverpool, E. Needham.

Application for protection in Class C will be made to the National Commission and according to reports everything is rosy for a prosperous season.

P. B. Wreath, owner of the Connellsville franchise, has been in town a number of times recently conferring with local men on the proposition and he is expected back again this week to take up the matter of securing Favette Field for the season. H. C. Hays holds a lease on the ground but the Keystone Planing Mill Company owns the fence and grandstand, which were never paid for by a former baseball magnate. He will endeavor to reach some agreement with them for a season's lease.

BEGINS A CLEANUP

Acting on Mayor's Orders, Chief Rottler Begins Raids.

Following Mayor Marietta's order that Connellsville is to be a "closed house" municipality hereafter, Chief of Police Rottler and Patrolman Barnes and Francis raided a house on North alley Saturday night. Mrs. Goldie Wilson and three inmates, Lula Berket, Nora Meyers and Elizabeth Smith, all colored, were arrested, together with a white man, and locked up in the city hall.

The man paid a forfeit of $5 and was released, but the women were arraigned before Mayor Marietta and fines aggregating $23.50 imposed. All of them paid and were accordingly released.

Chief of Police Rottler stated this morning that the mayor has ordered him to "clean up" and said that he has several other places under suspicion though he will work slowly and take action only when he is sure of his ground.

The "Tower" plant of the company is also running two out of three turns, and it is expected that it too will be running in full within a few weeks. There is a more hopeful sentiment along the entire Allegheny valley industrially, and other plants which were closed a few weeks ago will resume shortly.

STADER TO BUILD BUSINESS BLOCK ALONG MEADOW LANE

Three-Story Building to be Constructed in Rear of His Main Street Property.

J. L. Stader has awarded the contract to the South Connellsville Lumber Company for a modern brick business block to be erected on an 85x32 foot lot in the rear of his West Main street property which is occupied by A. R. Kurtz, the jeweler, Dr. J. L. Junk and Mr. Stader's undertaking establishment. As soon as the weather permits the old buildings on the lot will be razed, and the excavation for the new building commenced.

The building will probably be three stories. On the first floor will be three store rooms, 15x30 feet, one of which will be occupied by Newburg's store. Mr. Stader's private office to be 8x10 feet with a 10x14 foot lobby and a show room and chapel, both 21x12. THAW IS HAPPY

Yet He is Reticent Regarding Court's Probable Action.

By United Press.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 12.—Harry K. Thaw posed for photographers today but though it was plainly apparent that he is jubilant over the decision in his favor on Saturday, he was strangely reticent and unwilling to comment upon the court's probable action. In case the court decided that he may be admitted to bail, he will not leave New Hampshire but will bury himself in the mountains far from his guards and William Travers Jerome.

Thaw's lawyers will ask for an extension of time for the filing of briefs, in the habeas corpus hearing. It will probably be granted for the 20 days' limit has expired. It is likely that the New York attorneys will be granted a similar extension.

GIRL WHO DIED BY POISON DUPED INTO A BOGUS MARRIAGE

W. T. Christopher, Supposed Husband, Faces Serious Charges.

PROSECUTED IN MORGANTOWN

Prosecution of Man, Said to Have Family Reveals Girl's Alleged Betrayal; Learns Truth a Month After "Marriage;" Death Follows.

That Mrs. Christopher, who died a few weeks ago at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kissner in South Connellsville, committed suicide by poisoning, and did not take the drug by mistake, is indicated in the indictment of William P. Christopher in Morgantown for serious offenses. The discovery that she was not the legal wife of Christopher, it is said, resulted in the girl's self-destruction.

At the Kissner home in South Connellsville it was stated that the family had no knowledge of the validity of their daughter's marriage with Christopher being questioned, and that they did not place credence in the story. The report that their daughter committed suicide was also scouted. Christopher, they stated has been in constant communication with the family since their daughter's death.

There was considerable gossip concerning the case at the time of the young woman's death, although tangible evidence was lacking. However, the West Virginia officials are seeking Christopher and will push the prosecution.

It is declared that Christopher is a married man, having a wife and three children living in New York, and that he went through a bogus marriage ceremony with Miss Kissner, who believed the ceremony legal. They were married by a supposed justice of the peace. The "wedding" took place in Fairmont, and in West Virginia a justice of the peace is not authorized to perform the marriage ceremony.

Knowing that being married by a squire is binding in this state, the young woman supposed that the ceremony was entirely proper in West Virginia. Her disillusionment, it is said, came during [illegible]ents' home in South Connellsville less than a month after her supposed marriage. Despondent over her plight, she is said to have committed suicide. At the time it was stated by members of the family that she had taken the poison by mistake.

Miss Kissner was well known both here and in Morgantown. She was employed as a telephone operator here by the Tri-State company, and also worked in the Bell exchange in Morgantown.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles A. Goodwin of Monongalia county is conducting the case. A capias has been issued for the arrest of Christopher, but he has not yet been apprehended. He is a traveling man employed by a Pittsburg concern. Christopher is said to have become acquainted with Miss Kissner in Connellsville, during his business trips here.

It is said that the West Virginia authorities are investigating the case, in order to determine whether charges may be brought against Christopher under the Mann act, in which event the matter will be turned over to the Federal authorities.

PICKPOCKETS BUSY

Usual Saturday Haul is Made, According to Reports.

The weekly tale of the harvest of pickpockets on Saturday was heard again today. Several women lost their pocketbooks containing small sums of money in the jam at a theatre Saturday afternoon and it is believed that the pickpockets took advantage of the excellent opportunity to ply their trade as the crowd was pouring into the street after the performance.

Mrs. Charles B. McCormick was one of those victimized. A leather handbag which she carried on her arm was opened and a small sum of money in a purse taken from her. Another woman lost several dollars though the thieves threw a check for $25 away, finding it not negotiable.

Reports of several small pickings from people on the street cars were also heard today and people are convinced that two men who have been noticed pushing them way through the crowded cars on Saturday night are the guilty ones.

The police were called to Cedar avenue at 10 o'clock Saturday night by the frantic complaint of a woman who said she had a man locked in her cellar. Chief of Police Rottler investigated but found that the man had escaped through the coal hole.

What Is It?

The usual cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine, a drug which often produces aches, ails and discomfort; but the habit can be quickly overcome by using well made Postum.

One of the most pleasing features of this change from coffee to Postum is the total absence of a sense of something missed.

But more important is that "good all over" feeling of returning health; and it's the finest trade possible to quit coffee and get well.

Postum, made of prime wheat and a small per cent of New Orleans molasses, is a pure food-drink. It is wholesome and nourishing; and has a delicious, snappy flavour resembling that of Old Gov't Java, but is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine.

Any one can make a stand for the old fashioned fun that comes with health and the power to "do things." Suppose you try it!

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled 15 to 20 minutes.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A scant teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water dissolves instantly.

The convenience of Instant Postum is apparent. But, when prepared according to directions, both kinds are exactly the same. The cost per cup is about equal.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds.

CHURCH REPORT MADE

Good Showing for Year by German Lutheran Congregation.

The annual congregational meeting of St. John's German Lutheran Church was held yesterday morning, following the regular services. During the year the income was $1,8[illegible] and expenses $1,[illegible]. On the church debt $450 was paid, leaving a balance of $2,800. At the time Rev. George Duetz was made pastor nine years ago the debt was $11,000. The church has in its treasury $520 for a new pipe organ. Andrew Carnegie having offered to pay one-half the price of the organ. During the coming year $100 more is to be collected for this purpose.

During the year 40 children were baptized and 26 were confirmed. Ten marriages were solemnized. Twelve families were received into the church. Five hundred and twenty-five persons partook of the Holy Communion and Lord's Supper. The number of deaths and burials was ten. The present membership is 210 families.

Regular services are held at Connellsville, Scottdale, Morgan and Uniontown. The Ladies Aid Society, composed of about 50 women, donated $50 for the church debt and $50 for the new pipe organ and has on hand $100 for church improvements. The annual election of officers was postponed until next Sunday. Tonight the books of the congregation will be revised by Fred Doppelhauer.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is pleasant and safe to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

CHILDREN HATE OIL, CALOMEL AND PILLS.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

DEMOCRATIC IGNORANCE.

If the Democratic statesmen who made the Democratic Tariff bill didn't know any more concerning the industrial products they were legislating about than the official Fayette county organ seems to know about the tin plate industry and it is possible that many of the Congressmen didn't, it is no wonder the nation is staggering under the weight of sudden and drastic Free Trade conditions.

The News, for example, says it did not say the manufacturers of American tin could not make good tin but they do not.

This country [illegible] no tin. Tin is imported chiefly from the Straits [illegible] Cornwall. [illegible] the Welsh tin plate manufacturers to keep their standing.

The tin plate used in cans and other utensils is made by coating steel sheets with tin. The News seems to think the American tin plate mills make their own tin, whereas they merely roll their steel sheets from bars and then coat them with [illegible] tin.

When our Democratic contemporary has learned the difference between the metal tin and the tin plate of commerce it will be in position to discuss the matter more intelligently.

RESINOL STOPS ITCHING INSTANTLY

It is a fact that the moment Resinol Ointment touches itching skins, the itching stops and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap it almost always clears away all trace of eczema, ringworm, pimples, blackheads, or other tormenting, unsightly eruption quickly, leaving the skin clear and healthy.

And the best of it is you need never hesitate to use Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. There is nothing in them to injure the tenderest surface. Resinol is a doctor's prescription which for [illegible] years has been used by careful physicians for all kinds of skin affections. They prescribe Resinol freely, confident that its soothing, healing action is brought about by medication so bland and gentle as to be suited to the most delicate or irritated skin—even of a tiny child.

Resinol is sold by practically every druggist in the United States, but you can prove at our expense what it will do for you. Write today to Dept. 1-M, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you by parcel post a liberal trial of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap.

The show girl was fastened in the central cage. The clowns raised the inner doors, and the lions shot from their cramped quarters swift as tawny arrows. They were almost against the slight figure, without seeming to observe her. For the fourth time since noon they stood erect, sniffing the air, their bodies unconfined by galling timbers and chilling iron. For the fourth time this day, they were to be put through their tricks by force of fear. They hated these tricks, as they hated the small cages in which they could not lash their tails. They hated the "baby carriage" in which one was presently to sit, while the other pushed him over the floor, his sullen majesty sport for the rabble. They hated the board upon which they must see-saw, while the woman stood in the middle, preserving equilibrium.

But greater than the lions' hatred, was their fear of the woman, and greater than their fear of her was their terror of that long serpent which, no matter how far it might dart through space, remained always in the woman's hand. They well knew its venomous bite and as they slunk from side to side, their eyes were upon its coiling black tongue.

"I met Fran on the street," murmured Abbott, as he watched unblinkingly. "She said she was going to visit a sick friend. When did you see Fran last, Simon?"

"Don't know," Simon said, discouragingly. "Now they're going to see-saw. The black-maned one is the hardest to manage. I reckon one day he'll just naturally jump afoul of her and tear her to pieces. Look at him! I don't believe this girl is going to make him get up on top of that board. My! how he is showing his teeth at her. Say! This is a pretty good show, hey? Glad you came, uh? Say! Look at his teeth!"

In truth the black-maned lion opened his mouth to a frightful extent, making, however, not the slightest sound. He refused to budge.

Abbott shuddered.

"Samson!" cried the woman, impellingly. The other lion was patiently standing on his end of the board waiting. He seemed fast asleep. Samson, however, was wide awake and every cruel tooth was exposed as he stretched his mouth. In his amber eyes was the glow of molten copper.

Suddenly Samson wheeled about, and made a rush for his end of the see-saw. He stepped upon it. He was conquered. His haste to obey ... [illegible] ... the result of fear and hatred ... ... the violin playing—"Now" Si... [illegible] announced, gleefully ... one more act, but it's a ... let me tell you—that's why ... La Gonizetti ... Samson—the one that's ... grabs his mane, and pro... like a cowboy. Calls her ... rider. Makes Samson ... of that table, then she gets on ... him."

"... this isn't La Gonizetti," Abbott protested, shuddering again.

"Now you've said something. That's right. But it looks like she's game—she'll try it—we'd better stand a little farther back."

A hand was laid upon Abbott's arm. "Abbott," said the voice of Robert Clinton, harsh from smothered excitement. "You went to Gregory's house—did you see him?"

Abbott did not hear. The refractory lion, knowing that his time had come to be ridden, was asserting his independence. He would not leap upon the table. The other lion stood watching sleepily to see if he would obey.

"That you, Clinton?" Simon's greeting was tense with enjoyment. "Got here for the best of it, didn't you! Seems to me I saw Gregory somewhere not long ago, but I wasn't thinking about him."

"Hercules!" the masked woman addressed the gentler of the lions. "Go to your place. Hercules—go to your place!"

Hercules turned to his blue box, and seated himself upon it, leaving his tail to take care of itself.

"Say, Simon," muttered Robert Clinton, "you didn't see Miss Grace Noir, did you?"

"Shut up!" said Simon desperately.

The show girl was fiercely addressing the black-maned lion. "Now! Now! To the table! To the table!"

Samson did not budge. Facing the woman of the mask, he opened his mouth, revealing the red cave of his throat—past the ivory sentinels that not only stood guard, but threatened one could look down and down. This was no yawn of weariness, but a sign of rebellion—a sort of noiseless roar.

The trainer retreated to the farther side of the cage, then made a forward rush, waving her whip and shouting clangorously, "Up, Samson, up, Samson, up!" She did not pause in her course till close to his face.

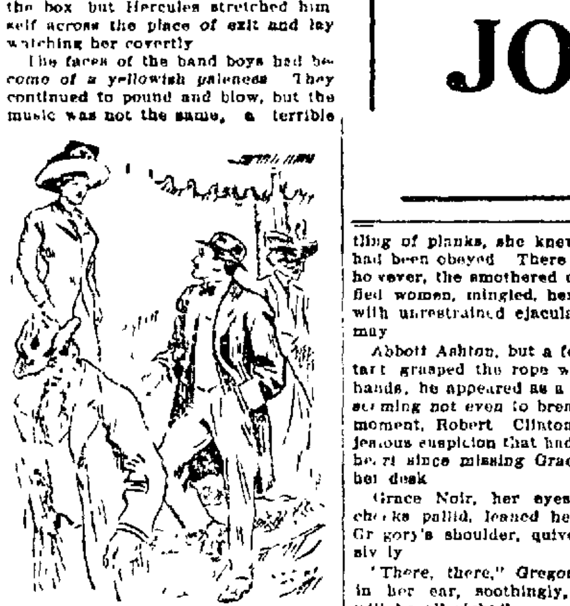

Again he opened his mouth, baring every tooth, voiceless, but unconquered.

Hercules, finding that affairs had come to a halt, slowly descended from his box, keeping his half-opened eyes upon the woman. Restlessly he began to pace before the outer door.

The slight figure withdrew several steps, then smote the rebellious lion a sharp blow across the mouth. He snapped at the lash. It slipped away from between his teeth. Having rescued her whip, she shouted to the other lion, "Back to your place, Hercules. Hercules—back to your place!"

She stood pointing sternly toward the box, but Hercules stretched himself across the place of exit and lay watching her covertly.

The faces of the band boys had become of a yellowish paleness. They continued to pound and blow, but the music was not the same, a terrible

"I Do Not Care What You Do," He Said Still More Roughly.

From behind the ... came the voice. A mighty roar shook the looser ...—"Up, Samson, up, Samson—up!"

Then it was that Samson found his voice. A mighty roar shook the loosened bars of the central cage—they vibrated visibly. The roar did not come as one short, sharp note of defiance. It rose and fell, then rose anew, varying in the inflections of the voice of a slave who dares to threaten, fears even while he threatens, and gathers passion from his fear.

At that fearful reverberation, the audience started up, panic-stricken. Hitherto the last act had been regarded as a badly played comedy; now tragedy was in the air.

Gregory and Grace Noir at that instant, became alive to their surroundings. Hitherto, despising the show, rebellious at the destiny which had forced them to attend it, they had been wholly absorbed in their efforts to escape observation. The roaring of the lion startled them to a perception of the general alarm.

Grace clung to Gregory. "Oh save me!" she panted hysterically.

The voice of the woman behind the bars rang throughout the tent—"Sit down!" The voice was not loud, now, but singularly penetrating. "Sit down, all of you, and remain absolutely motionless, or I am lost."

She dared not remove her gaze from Samson's eyes; but on hearing no rattling of planks, she knew her appeal had been obeyed. There came to her, however, the smothered cries of terrified women, mingled, here and there with unrestrained ejaculations of dismay.

Abbott Ashton, but a few yards distant grasped the rope with bloodless hands, he appeared as a white statue, seeming not even to breathe. In that moment, Robert Clinton forgot the jealous suspicion that had tortured his heart since missing Grace Noir from her desk.

"There, there," Gregory whispered in her ear, soothingly, "everything will be all right."

The masked woman for the second time addressed the terrified audience, still not venturing to turn her head in their direction: "Whoever moves or speaks, or cries aloud, will be my murderer. I have only one hope left, and I'm going to try it now. I ask you people out there to give me just this one chance for my life. Keep absolutely still."

Again Samson uttered his terrible roar. It alone was audible. Tier above tier, faces rose to the tent roof, white and set. The audience was like one huge block of stone in which only faces have been carved.

The agitated music ceased.

Then the woman walked to the farthermost side of the inclosure. In doing so she was obliged to pass the crouching form of Hercules, but she pretended not to know he was there, she moved slowly backward, always facing Samson.

At last the vertical bars prevented farther retreat. Then she lifted her hand slowly, steadily, and drew off her crimson mask. It dropped at her feet. Despite the muffled street-noises that never ceased to rumble from afar, the whispering sound of the silken mask as it struck the plank floor of the cage, was distinctly audible.

"Grace!" Gregory whispered in horror—"It's Fran!"

Grace started from his embrace at the name and glared down upon the stage. She sat erect, unsupported, petrified.

Gregory's brow was moistened with a chilled dew. "It's Fran," he mumbled, "it's Fran! Grace—pray for her!"

Fran looked Samson steadily in the eyes, and Samson glared back fixedly. For a few moments this quiver between life and death remained at the breaking point. Had a stranger at that moment looked under the tent entrance, he might have thought everybody asleep. There was neither sound nor movement.

Grace whispered—"It is the hand of God!"

Her tone was almost inaudible but Gregory shrank as from a mortal blow. Its sinister meaning was unmistakable. Swiftly he turned to stare at her.

In Grace's eyes was a wild and ominous glare akin to that of the threatening lion. It was a savage conviction that Fran was at last confronted by the justice of heaven.

Suddenly Fran crouched forward till her head was almost on a level with her waist, insomuch that it was a physical exertion to hold her face up lifted. In this sinuous position she was the embodiment of power. If she felt misgivings concerning this last resource, there was no look to betray it. Straight toward Samson she rushed, her body lithe and serpentine, her direction unerring.

To the beast, Fran had become one of those mysterious flying serpents which bite from afar. He felt the sting of her terrible eyes and his gaze grew shifty. It wandered away, and, on returning, found her teeth bared, as if feeling for his heart.

Rushing up to his very face—"Samson!" she cried, impellingly.

Again he seemed to feel the lash upon his tawny skin.

"Samson. Up, Samson, up, Samson—up!"

Suddenly Samson wheeled about, and leaped upon the table.

Hercules slowly rose, stretched himself, then marched to his box. He looked from Fran to the immovable Samson waiting upon the table, then mounted to his place, and seemed to fall asleep.

And now, at last, Fran looked at the spectators. Stepping lightly to the bars, she threw kisses this way and that, smiling radiantly. "Oh!" she cried, with vibrating earnestness, "you people out there—you can't think how I love you! You've saved my life. You are perfect heroes. Now make all the noise you please."

"May we move?" called a cautious voice from a few feet away. It was Abbott Ashton, with eyes like stars.

Fran looked at him, wondering at his thoughts. She answered by an upward movement of her hand.

As though by a carefully rehearsed arrangement the ... rose to its feet ... boys ... Such a shout! Such waving of hats, and handkerchiefs! Such unabashed sobs! Such inarticulate ...—such graspings of neighboring hands! The spectators had gone mad with joyful relief.

"Now, I'm a rough rider!" she shouted, burying her hands in the mane, and lying along the lion's back in true cowboy fashion. She plunged, she shouted loudly, but Samson only closed his eyes and seemed to sleep.

After that, making the lions return to their cramped side cages was a mere detail. The show was ended.

Fran, remaining in the empty cage, stood at the front, projecting her hand through the bars to receive the greetings of the crowd. Almost every one wanted to shake hands with her.

"Look, look!" Simon Jefferson suddenly grasped Robert Clinton's hand, and pointed toward the tent-roof. "There they are!"

Something very strange had happened up there, but it was lost to Clinton's keen jealous gaze—one of those happenings in the soul, which however momentous passes unobserved in the midst of the throng.

"Not so fast!" Grace cautioned Gregory. "We must wait up here till the very last—don't you see Mr. Clinton? And Simon Jefferson is now pointing us out. We can't go down that way—"

"We!" Gregory harshly echoed. "We! I have nothing to do with you, Grace Noir. Go to him, if you will."

Grace turned ashen pale. "What do you mean?" she stammered. "You tell me to go to Mr. Clinton?"

"I tell you to go where you please. That girl yonder is my daughter, do you understand? Don't hold me back! I shall go to her and proclaim her as my child to the world. Do you hear me? That's my Fran!"

THE LAST WEEK

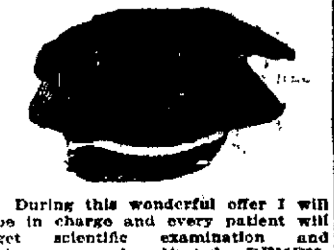

THIS WILL BE POSITIVELY THE LAST WEEK OF THIS WONDERFUL OFFER. BEGINNING MONDAY, JANUARY 12, I WILL FIT YOUR EYES WITH "STEVENS S. Q." GOLD-FILLED EYE GLASSES FOR $1.00 SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED. PLEASE REMEMBER, I AM DOING THIS TO BUILD UP A BIG BUSINESS. COME EARLY IN THE MORNING AND EARLY IN THE WEEK AND YOU WILL BE SURE TO GET WAITED ON. OFFICE HOURS 9 A. M. TO 5 P. M.

This "Stevens" offer is an advertising proposition pure and simple—your advantage is a superior grade of goods at a special low price—my profit is making 600 new acquaintances and winning their confidence.

Stevens mountings are the best in the world—they occupy the same position in the optical trade as "Rogers Bros., 1847" do in the silver line and "Elgin" or "Waltham" do in the watch business.

SUCH A STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT no doubt makes you ask if it is absolutely bonafide and if so why I do it. The whole story is this. I have decided to make this unheard of sacrifice of gold-filled glasses at $1 to gain the full support and patronage of Connellsville people and thus build up an extensive optical business. The lenses are the same I use in my regular lines, every one fully guaranteed, and I use just as much care in fitting your eyes. Difficult cases a specialty.

Headaches and nervousness and other troubles, far remote from the eye are oftimes the direct result of eye strain and the proper glasses would give immediate relief. It is not necessary for the eye to be sore to indicate the need of glasses. In many cases the eye may be perfectly healthy and glasses may be needed for the reasons which are only apparent to the skilled refractionist.

During this wonderful offer I will be in charge and every patient will get scientific examination and glasses properly adjusted. REMEMBER I am making this offer to build up my business and cannot afford to exaggerate. Special prices during offer on specially ground lenses, Bifocals and torics.

For balance of week only "Stevens S. Q." Gold filled Eyeglass Mountings—every pair guaranteed by the makers—fitted with my own lenses—including examination, $1.00.

All "Stevens" frames and mountings are stamped on the bridge—"Stevens S. Q."—look for it—don't take my word. They are gold filled—not gold plated—permanently guaranteed by Stevens & Company, (Inc.) of Providence, R. I., and myself—and will be replaced at any time if they fail to give satisfaction.

Caution about the Use and Selection of Spectacles

Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of 14 inches from the eyes with ease and comfort; also will be able to read it with each eye separately. If unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. [illegible] surfaces. THE SOISSON.

"THRO' ESKIMO LAND."

The Eskimos of Labrador have solved the problems of living without any help from those who claim to be more civilized. Mr. Alfred Ward Birdsall, the noted traveler and lecturer, who will give his travelogue on "Labrador" at the Soisson Theatre, three days, commencing this afternoon and night, relates that while in the Arctic region last summer obtaining pictures and material for his lecture, he thought a boat race between the natives would make interesting pictures. He tried to engage the Eskimos to contest but they refused, not being able to understand why one person should try to best another. Competition is entirely unknown among them. If an Eskimo arises in the morning and there is nothing to eat in his hut, he goes to the home of a neighbor and helps himself to whatever there is in the larder, and the neighbor never raises any objection. Community life is universal and each person helps the other to secure a living.

THE ARCADE.

ANOTHER BIG WINNER.

Another fine big time bill including a duo and two trios is booked for the Arcade for the first half this week. "The Rake Off" is a high class comedy dramatic sketch which takes place in New York city and is ably portrayed by Messrs. Kohler and Kussell and Miss Kate Foster, artists of note. Billy Dodge and Josephine Claremont, late musical comedy features, present their new act entitled, "Pickin's From Song and Dance Land," a very clever act. The Stadium Trio are famous European gymnasts of genuine merit. Three fine photoplays complete this most excellent bill. The last half week brings the popular piquant musical mixture entitled, "In Bohemia" with Batchelor, Adams and Vert and their five dancing girls. This show is a big hit.

Expect Trouble in Spring.

The American Steel & Wire Company has stored over 45,000 tons of coarse coal at their different mills in Cleveland since the first of ecember and the different railroads have announced that they were ready to store coal in anticipation that there will be a great deal of trouble about April 1.
